Art Department Presents Exhibit

Best of Year's Work Represented Field of Department Is Very Extensive.

On the main corridor of the building in the cases, approaching the assembly room, is the annual exhibit of the Department of Fine Arts. The work is most interesting, both in the scope of the subject matter covered and the perfection of each piece, and warrants careful examination.

Perhaps, first for attention is the head of the Greek god, Aeneas, the charcoal studies of vases, followed by the painting in water color of hollyhocks and of a view in the studio with sunlight flitting across the floor.

The Commercial Art classes are well represented with practical examples of advertisements of standard commodities, done with a view to reproduction, as well as to immediate use in window card writing. Much of the work of the class, especially that of show window display, is impossible to show in such an exhibit.

Four charming sketches in pen and ink, one of the college library and the others of the campus, are well executed in themselves and also aid in the production of the high school annual.

Many will be particularly interested in the plans of the grounds showing the best placement of the house in the lot and the planting of trees and bushes. House plans also indicate the shape of rooms, allowing for the housewife much desired closet space and the economical use of constructive materials. In the center of the west case are the sketches for costumes for young and old, plump and thin, blonde and brunette, and with them designs for beading of bags and embroidered scallops and initial letters.

Harold Stafford, Nell Hudson, Richard Kirby, Alice Peery, Ada Dinsmore, Edith Shoemaker, Mary Woolbridge, Ferd Masters, and Grace Tebow are some of the students whose names are in evidence.

In addition to the exhibit in the cases, the Art Department keeps on display in its rooms on the fourth floor a permanent exhibit of sculpture, pictures and current student work, much of which is of great interest and all are cordially invited to visit the department and view the work at any time.

Enrollment Passes 600 Mark.

Enrollment went above the 600 mark last week. Friday the number enrolled was 607. Several others are registering this week.

War Orphans Show Appreciation of Aid by Sending Specimens.

Have you ever doubted the value of the work done by the Junior Red Cross? If you have, you should examine the case in the lower hallway. It contains handwork done by the children in foreign countries where the work of the Junior Red Cross was This case was sent as a token of appreciation of the help rendered by the Junior Red Cross. Every article is of special interest exhibiting skill and neatness of work.

The case is sent out by the Southwestern Division of the Red Cross, and is being sent to all the teachers' colleges, since at these institutions the teachers of the state can best be reached. It is desired to show the importance of Junior Red Cross work and to enlist the teachers in this cause for the coming year.

One side of the case contains maps showing the distribution of centers where work has been done by the Junior Red Cross, and much interesting and valuable information as to the various types of service rendered is given.

The exhibit will go to Warrensburg State Teachers College from here.

Ex-Service Men Organize.

Twenty-five ex-service men are enrolled this summer. They met last week to feel out their strength, so to speak. It was decided that a definite organization would be a desirable thing. Tracy Dale was elected president by acclamation. Plans for further organization are being perfected. With so much potential force in one organization it should be able to finish anything it undertakes. What to name the organization is one of the big problems at present before the body.

Rules for Excess Work.

There have been more petitions for excess work this summer than ever before. The granting of these is controlled by rules made by a joint conference of the state educational institutions. Only to those students whose work ranks S are these petitions granted.

Good Lectures to be Given.

Students of the college will have the privilege of hearing educational experts speak this summer. Arrangements have been made to have Former Commissioner of Education, P. P. Claxton, Miss Edith Lathrop, a specialist in rural extension, speak to the students sometime during the week beginning June 27. Dr. J. J. Tigert may also be here at that time.

Helen Miller and Earl Bland Win Tennis Championship In Tourney.

Earl Bland and Helen Miller won the mixed doubles tennis at the College Saturday afternoon by defeating William Mapel and Ora May Condon 2-6, 6-3, 6-4. Fast playing was exhibited on both sides.

The teams were about evenly matched but Mapel and Miss Condon became a little over-confident after winning the first set and did not play the close, accurate tennis that has been characteristic of them all thru the tournament. After dropping the first set, Bland and Miss Miller settled down to a steady game, returning many hard drives and placing shots with deadly accuracy.

This is the first of a series of tournaments to be played at the college this summer. The Bland-Miller combination will defend their title as mixed doubles champions in a later tournament.

Eurekans Have Picnic.

The meeting of the Eureka Literary society on June 9 was held in the college park. About thirty attended and although they were dampened by the shower that went over about the time for roasting the wieners, the spirits of each were not dampened in the least and every one seemed to be glad they had attended.

Tracy Dale entered the college this summer a few days late. He has been visiting in Canada since school closed at Albany.

He was very much impressed with the size of the squad that will report in September for work. He said, "I am distinctly well pleased with prospects, they are better than I thought. Everybody in town seems to be a booster."

The selection of the new coach has interested several of the neighboring town boys in the school. Letters have been received from several concerning the work here and the prospects for a winning team.

Students Are Given Lawn Party.

The young people's department of the First M. E. Church entertained the college students with a lawn party Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mutz. The beautiful lawn was dotted here and there with benches and groups of chairs for the guests. Entertainment was furnished for one hundred guests. Refreshments of punch and wafers was served from tables beautifully decorated with roses and fern leaves.

The Missouri Wesleyan Male Quartet will give a varied program of music and readings in the First M. E. Church in Maryville, June 29. This is a talented and well trained group of college men who give well selected programs. Every college student should be there to enjoy the good things in store for them.

Seniors of the School of Journalism of Missouri University presented as a class gift, a sun-dial on April 25. Dean Williams, in accepting the gift for School of Journalism said:

"The sun-dial is a chronicle of time. Journalism, too, is time's chronicle."

"The motto upon it, 'Let there be light,' is alike a definition of the purpose of journalism and a challenge unto its complete fulfillment. Light symbolizes knowledge, joy, growth, life. So does good journalism diffuse accurate knowledge, promote wholesome joy, encourage desirable growth, interpret and obtain, as may be, unto all men more abundant life."

Out of State.

President Serley of the Iowa State Teachers College at Cedar Falls reports that the general assembly appropriated $1,598,000 for the school for the next biennial period. Of this amount, $1,368,000 is for support and $230,000 for new buildings and land.

The six State normal schools of Minnesota have been made teachers' colleges with power to grant appropriate degrees by H. F. No. 890 which has recently been signed by the Governor. The board which has charge of these schools will in the future be known as State Teachers' College Board. These teachers' colleges are located at Winona, Mankato, St. Cloud, Duluth, Moorhead, and Bemidji.

L. H. Murlin, president of Boston University, has made an unprecedented success of the university from every point of view. He came to Boston from Baker University of Kansas, and the enrollment has gone forward by leaps and bounds, the scholastic standards have been improved and the educational vision has been extended marvelously. Now, Dr. Murlin is advocating some feasible plan for preventing too large an institution. A college of fifty professors and five hundred students is his idea for efficiency.

Literary Society Notes.

Philomathean.

It is always a good thing to be a Philo and it is especially so this summer. The Philos are not letting the hot weather cut down their attendance nor slacken their zeal. Thursday, June 16, at the regular meeting everyone responded to roll call with a joke. This put the members in the right frame of mind to enjoy the good program which followed.

Lillie Nelson played a piano solo. Alma Eaton then gave a good impersonation of a little boy. The next number on the program was a flute solo by William Utter. The society enjoyed this very much. Nellie Halasey concluded the program with a talk. She told of her experiences in Utah sixty miles from any sort of railroad. Miss Halasey spoke in an interesting manner.

After the regular meeting, the Philos all packed bag and baggage and went to the park for a picnic. Miss Dow, Miss De Luce, and Miss Dykes accompanied them to see that everyone returned safely. The amount of sandwiches and orange ice consumed was marvelous, but a greater marvel was that Tracy Dale and Harvey Watson could eat ten sandwiches, six dishes of ice, and plate of salad, and still live.

Excelsior.

Thursday afternoons at 3:25, in Room 216 is the place to go if you want to really enjoy an hour.

The Excelsiors met June 16. The house was called to order by the president of the society, Alta Smith. After transacting business, paper was passed and each member was given six minutes to write a song or yell for the society. At the close of the six minutes, three judges took up the papers and retired to another room to choose from their list a song and yell to be adopted for the society, while the rest enjoyed music.

The decision of the judges was made and the following song and yell was adopted by the society.

I. Oh, we are jolly Excelsiors,
Our banner we wave high,
We wouldn't serve another group
We'll excel them all or die.

Chorus.

Then good Excelsior keep it up
Keep it up and excel the rest;
Win over all or die.

II. There is no need for argument
They'll tell us all the same
For from our jolly faces we
Just give away our names.

III. We've won in contests of the past
And we'll win in those to come,
We'll put the Philos and Eureka
Slightly on the bum.

They also adopted a yell which was as follows:

Ex-c-e-l, spells excel
Yes—Here's the rest
s-i-o-r—Excelsiors
Is the very BEST.

At the close of their business meeting all enjoyed a good social time getting acquainted. Lemonade was served, after which the society passed out side and a snap shot picture was taken of them.

Eurekans.

Program for June 16 was:

Vocal solo .....Arthur Elmore
Reading .....Etha Henderson
Piano solo .....M. Goodpasture

Come visit our society and see what we have done, what we are doing and what we are planning to do.

This program of the Eureka Literary Society for Thursday was enjoyed by all who were there. After the program several business matters were taken up and several new members voted into the society. A new program committee is at work and we are sure of some very interesting programs in the near future. Every member should be present next Thursday.

Course in Art Appreciation Proves Valuable.

When you see a statue, picture or some other work of art does it make an appeal to you or does it have no meaning at all? If anything has no meaning it is because you do not understand it. We like what we understand and we enjoy what we like. Fine art by teaching the appreciation of art adds to the enjoyment of life.

The question what is the basic subject is often discussed. Appreciation of art will more nearly reach this standard than any other subject. Art is so vitally connected with other subjects that one learns many facts not usually that of as art. History is an example of this for the life of every race is typified by their art. Of some ancient civilizations all trace is destroyed except some artistic work such as temples or palaces. These are the only means of living in the past. The class has found this to be true in studying the art of Egypt and Asia minor.

As the various artists and works of art are often mentioned in literature, a back ground for English is gained in this course. After studying the ruins of the palaces on the island of Crete, we learn that there was a vast difference between the houses of the Cretans and those of barbarian Greeks of the mainland. The latter were of only one room built with a definite plan. The former were of many rooms constructed one at a time in a rambling way. A cave built in this method would seem a labyrinth to the early Greeks and thus we have the origin of that part of the myth.

Not only history and English but also mathematics, languages and the sciences are all connected with art. From the remains of the early work in construction, sculpture and drawing we can tell how much the people knew of mathematics.

Every person is naturally artistic unless his real self has been perverted by abuse. To keep our minds up to their real standard as well as just to increase the joy of living, appreciation of art is a worth while course.

Flag Etiquette.

Since Tuesday, June 14, was observed as flag day, it is interesting to note some rules of etiquette of the flag, as required by the War and Navy Departments of the United States government.

The flag should not be raised before sunrise and it should be lowered at sunset, unless under siege or in a battle. It should not be displayed on stormy days, unless obligatory.

When the flag is formally raised, all present during the ceremony should stand at attention with hand raised to forehead ready for the salute. The flag should never be allowed to touch the ground in the raising and lowering of it.

No advertisement can be placed upon the flag, nor can it be used as a trade mark. It should not be worn as the whole or part of a costume and when worn as a badge it should be pinned over the left breast or to the left collar lapel.

When the colors are passing on parade or in review the spectator should if walking, halt, if sitting, stand at attention, and uncover.

The flag when portrayed, alone, by any illustrative process, should always have the staff so placed that it is at the left of the picture, the fabric floating to the right.

Mr. Miller Will Contribute to Mo. School Journal.

Many of us know that Mr. Miller has been contributing at various times to the Missouri School Journal. Recently the editors have asked him to conduct a department, along the line of English or Oral Speaking for school programs. Since he refused to do this they have insisted that he at least contribute articles to this paper each month; this, Mr. Miller has consented to do. They were very much impressed with the vigor and the attractive style Mr. Miller uses in his writing.

Miss Garrett recently spent several days visiting friends and relatives in Des Moines. The trip was made by auto.

Departmental Notes.

Manual Training.

The class in Observation and Teaching is studying the teacher's ability to answer questions and the economy of time.

Mr. Glenn's class in Sharpening Saws and The Care of Tools is preparing to sharpen saws. They are filing slides in order to be able to show the students how the work is done.

Public Speaking 61.

Each Monday morning the public speaking class under the direction of Mr. Miller, renders a program at 11:25 in room 301. Last week's program was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it.

2. Five minute talk on "Current Events"—William Curl.
3. Reading—Etta Suetterlin.

Education.

The Demonstration school gave a demonstration lesson for the class in Technique of Teaching. They gave the result that may be obtained in informational reading.

Another class in the training school is taking a summer vacation trip thru the National Park route. The special methods classes this summer are twice as large as ever enrolled before.

Geography.

Mr. Cauffield reports that he now has the largest class enrolled that he has ever had since he has been teaching at the College. This large class is the Economic Geography class.

The advanced physiography class is studying the solar system and the relation of the sun and stars. This class also is finding out how to locate ships in distress—how to find the latitude and longitude by using the quadrant and chromometer.

English.

Miss Ballard reports that the class in History of English Literature is taking up the study of the Romantic period. The class in Types of Literature is completing the study of the Lyric.

Commerce.

The beginning bookkeeping class in the secondary department is using Kinsey's text. They are taught the balance sheet method of approach. The aim is not only to train in the art of bookkeeping, but to give the student a broad view of business principles and to provide information which will assist in a more intelligent control and administration of business. This course is not only useful to bookkeepers but to everyone who comes in contact with business life.

Methods in penmanship has its usual large enrollment. This subject deals with the psychological and social as well as with the mechanical side of penmanship.

Mathematics.

There are ninety students enrolled for first quarter college algebra this summer. This class had to be sectioned. The trigonometry class is also very large. College students seem to be taking more interest in the more advanced courses in Mathematics than ever before.

Biology.

The Biology class 11, number 75 has been divided into eight groups. The laboratory work will be carried on by rotating these groups. A leader is chosen from each, who reports the attendance and absence of his group, thus facilitating the roll call.

Dramatic Art.

The enrollment in Coaching of Dramatics is larger than it has ever been. There are twenty-two students enrolled. They are working on "As You Like It." Each person in the class is assigned a part and they must learn the part and act it for the rest of the class to criticize. Class is being held in the Auditorium at 9:35 and all interested are welcome to visit the class.

Agriculture Department.

Various crop and soil experiments are being carried on by the University of Missouri, the State Teachers' College co-operating. They include variety tests of farm crops, rotation plans, and the use of various kinds of fertilizers on crops.

The college is conducting independently some experiments with different crops. The effect of commercial fertilizer on corn is being tried out. Ear row tests with corn are being made. Soy beans are sown broadcast instead of in rows. Variety tests of tomatoes and cabbage are being carried out in the school garden.

This year the college has 12 acres of soy beans planted. They were planted with furrow openers which makes it easier to keep the beans free of weeds.

The animal husbandry class inspected the Shorthorn cattle at the Ogden farm last week.

Miss Smith promises a series of piano and ensemble recitals. The dates will be announced soon. Miss Smith's classes this quarter are much larger than in recent quarters.

Educate Their Children.

Professional men, despite their proverbial wiggarrly salaries, predominate in sending their daughters to college.

Figures made public from a census conducted by Mount Holyoke College show that although slightly more than three per cent of the entire male population of the country are professional men, yet thirty-three and eight-tenths of the students there, registered their fathers as professional men.

While the professional men are most interested in sending their daughters to college, the farmers are least interested, the census showed. Thirty-six per cent of the men in the country are engaged in agriculture, but only eight per cent of the girls in college come from the farms.

Next to the professional men, the tradesmen are most interested in educating their daughters. Ten per cent of the male population are in trades, yet twenty-four per cent of the Mount Holyoke students have tradesman fathers.

THE GREEN AND WHITE COURIER

The Stroller.

Pueblo is not the only place that is having disasters; the college is having her share. The building received a shock the other day when Gladys Bookman fell off her chair in the library. Ernest Daniels who was sitting at the same table showed that he could be relied upon in an emergency.

But the Stroller thinks that Charlie Wells' memory cannot be relied on for he has lost his best Sunday hat and just can't recall at which home he has left it. The Stroller isn't surprised, tho, since it might be at Hester's, Mary's, Alma's, Ellen's or—well, anyplace.

But Charlie is not the only one who misplaces his hat. Mr. Godbey carefully deposits his on the library floor at 7 o'clock each morning and then at noon asks the whole library force to search for it.

Even that is better than Miss Hopkins does, however, because she asked Harriet Van Buren, "Can you find that old sweetheart of mine around in the library any place?"

The freshman composition boys have the usual conceit of man, the Stroller observes, as when Miss Dykes said there was one thing in his speech that she could not forgive Mr. Harding for, one of them immediately asked: "was it his remarks on matrimony?"

Romance seems in the air this week for the Stroller heard one of the men observe when he heard of the marriage of U. L. Riley, "Well the old guard is thinning mighty fast. I wonder when the bug will bite Bill Richards?" The Stroller wonders too.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. program, June 15 was well attended. Every girl enrolled at the college should become a member of the Y. W. C. A., and attend the regular meetings on Wednesday of each week. Every one needs spiritual food as well as the physical and intellectual training. The program June 15 was as follows:

Song ..... Onward Christian Soldiers
Devotion ..... Led by Mabel Cook
Prayer ..... Mr. Harry A. Miller
Piano Solo ..... Ruth Houchens
Vocal Solo ..... Mabel Raines
Talk ..... Mr. Harry A. Miller

Mr. Miller's talk—"The Glory of Woman," based on the Book of Ruth is given in full below:

"Man is the image and glory of God; but the woman is the glory of man."

"Woman is the Sunday of man, the salt of his life."

"The foundation of domestic happiness is faith in the virtue of woman."

"Woman is like the reed that bends in every breeze, but breaks not in the tempest."

"Pretty women without religion are like flowers without perfume." Men have sight, women insight," "Woman, last at the cross, earliest at the grave." "The test of civilization is the estimate of woman." Woman's glory lies in her personal charm; her fidelity; her tenderness, her virtue; her industry; and her spirit of self-sacrifice.

Personal charm does not mean physical good looks but that unseen but not unexpressed quality that attracts those feminine qualities. Shall woman be a Cleopatra or a St. Theresa? A society belle or a Jane Adams? An artist's model or a Margaret Sangster? A seaside butterfly or a social worker? A spendthrift or a worker with her hands? Woman, don't prostitute your charm.

Fidelity of woman is beautiful. "Whithersoever thou goest there will I go, whither thou lodgest, I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people and thy God, my God," said Ruth to Naomi in the valley of Moab thirty centuries ago.

A woman saved David from the wrath of Saul by letting him down out of the window. Joan of Arc saved France. A woman made the United States flag. A woman in the French zone (1916) saved a hospital from the German fire by staining a white sheet with the blood of men from operating tables—in the form of the Red Cross.

A woman made Lincoln president. A woman last at the cross in the midnight—Mary Magdalene. Woman's tenderness is portrayed in Irving's story—"The Wife."

The story of Penelope illustrates the virtue of woman. Ruth gleaned in the fields; she was industrious.

There are many well-known incidents showing woman's self-sacrifice. Ruth left her native country to suffer with Naomi.

Be a Christian woman. A woman without religion is like a flower without perfume. A beautiful woman void of virtue is contemptible, but a beautiful woman with beautiful ways is a joy to the world. What is more attractive than the cherub, sweet girl baby of three with her pretty curls, her dimpled cheeks, lisping her words that fall like pearls from her lips? And then as she passed into joyous childhood with occasional sallies in the form of pouts that make her pretty lips the prettier, with her eyes dancing at times with the abandonment of childish diversions, with her curls falling in profusion about her saucy head, she becomes the idol of all who know her. And then as insensibly she passes like the sudden springing into life of the early flower, into young womanhood, her charms have become multiplied; her face blushing and radiant, her eyes by turns dreamy and coquettish, her lips like the buds of May, her every feature attractive, her voice like the music of the winds tuned by love's soft harp—she lavishes her heart upon some worthy object of affection, she becomes the inspiration for the opposite sex.

Then, as the happy months glide into years and life comes on apace, with her fluttering heart she is seen bending over a cradle, wreathed in smiles, and cooing like the dove to another who shall repeat her life history—a happy, contented mother, with her deep and holy love divided between husband and child, her heart leaping to the needs of her baby and the fond affection of a manly man. Then as the golden glory of the Sun of life deepens in its western glow, she mingles with her sons and daughters and her life companion in the home where life is one long realization of the dreams of youth and where the richness of love is realized in its fruition. Happy, thrice happy, the mother in the heart of her home, than even in the bloom of budding life.

And as the fading day lingers and the sun pales into a silver twilight, with the halls of the old home still—when the children have gone away like birds from the nest of the dame—to far away climes perchance—then the real beauty of woman reveals itself as she leans her silvered head against the pale cheek of her life companion and whispers again in the gloaming as long ago she whispered under the Hawthorne or in the lane—that magic word that has given the world its greatest and noblest of blessings—LOVE. As long as life lasts, and hearts beat, and hopes are high; as long as men have triumphs and failures—woman shall never cease to be his joy and his inspiration.

Assembly Notes.

Flag Day was not forgotten at the College Assembly Tuesday morning, and the Star-Spangled Banner was sung with a spirit seldom heard in our auditorium. The students were further entertained by a five reel picture "The Snob" which was enjoyed by all. Many students have expressed a desire, that "Movies" might be a regular thing in our assemblies.

Who Will Be First.

Dr. Hobbs thinks he will have more than he can do for a while, that is if all our 600 students take heed to the announcement read in assembly Tuesday concerning physical examinations, and all rush to him in the next few days for an appointment for their examination. However, all people are more or less alike and judging from the little slips of paper which were handed out promiscuously over the student body, last quarter, his work will be spread out over most of the summer quarter.

Miss MacLeod and Miss Minnie James entertained the following: Miss Winn, Miss Dykes, Miss Dow, Miss DeLuce, Miss Margaret James and Miss May Corwin with a picnic in the Normal Park last week. The guest of honor, Mrs. Dooley of Hannibal, a sister of Miss Arnett, failed to arrive on account of railroad connection. Nevertheless a very enjoyable evening was enjoyed by all.

Frances Nelson who specialized in fine art has been teaching the past year at Bedford. She expected to be in school this summer but is unable to enter on account of ill health.
